

A national expert in pulmonary hypertension, Vallerie V. McLaughlin, MD, FACC, FAHA, is the Kim A. Eagle Endowed Professor of Cardiovascular Medicine, Director of the Pulmonary Hypertension Program, Director of the Disease Management Ambulatory Care Unit, and Director of the Heart Vessel Blood Clinical Trials Support Unit at the University of Michigan Medical School in Ann Arbor.

Dr. McLaughlin earned her MD at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in Chicago, Illinois. She completed her internship and residency at the University of Michigan Hospitals in Ann Arbor, and she completed her fellowship in cardiology at Northwestern University. Dr. McLaughlin is a fellow of the American College of Cardiology, American College of Chest Physicians, and American Heart Association Councils on Clinical Cardiology and Epidemiology.

Dr. McLaughlin has been Principal Investigator for major clinical trials on drug therapies to treat pulmonary arterial hypertension. She is the author or co-author of articles and abstracts, which are published in prestigious, peer-reviewed scientific journals such as Journal of the American Medical Association Cardiology, New England Journal of Medicine, Journal of the American College of Cardiology, and Circulation. She has been Editor in Chief for Advances in Pulmonary Hypertension, an editorial board member and a guest editor for Journal of the American College of Cardiology, and a former editorial board member for Chest. Dr. McLaughlin is Former Chair of the Pulmonary Hypertension Association Scientific Leadership Committee and Board of Trustees. She is Former Chair of the American College of Cardiology Foundation / American Heart Association Clinical Expert Consensus Document Committee for Pulmonary Arterial Hypertension and Chair of the Cardiovascular Medical Research and Education Fund Steering Committee. Dr. McLaughlin is a recipient of the Pulmonary Hypertension Association Award of Excellence in Pulmonary Arterial Hypertension Care.