

Robert O. Bonow, MD, MS

Robert O. Bonow, MD, MS is Goldberg Distinguished Professor of Cardiology at the Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. He received his MD degree from the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He served as Senior Investigator in the Cardiology Branch of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute from 1976 to 1992, and was Chief of the Division of Cardiology at Northwestern University from 1992 to 2011. He has authored or co-authored over 615 papers in the medical literature and 120 book chapters. He serves as Editor-in-Chief of JAMA Cardiology and is one of the five editors of Braunwald's Heart Disease: A Textbook of Cardiovascular Medicine.

Dr. Bonow is a past president of the American Heart Association, a Master of the American College of Cardiology and a Master of the American College of Physicians. He currently serves on the Board of Scientific Counselors of the NHLBI and has previously served on the Board of Trustees of the American College of Cardiology, the Board of Directors of the American Heart Association, the Subspecialty Board on Cardiovascular Disease of the American Board of Internal Medicine, the Board of Extramural Advisors of the NHLBI, and the Clinical Research Roundtable of the Institute of Medicine.

Among his honors are the NIH Director's Award and the U.S. Public Health Service Commendation Medal and Outstanding Service Medal. He is the recipient of the Distinguished Leadership Award, Distinguished Achievement Award, Gold Heart Award, and James B. Herrick Award of the American Heart Association; the Distinguished Fellowship Award, Distinguished Service Award, and Distinguished Scientist Award of the American College of Cardiology; the Denolin Award of the European Society of Cardiology; the John Phillips Memorial Award of the American College of Physicians. An endowed chair was established in his name at Northwestern University in 2012.